Readers of the Mail will remember the account published at the time of the arrest, a little over a year ago, of Captain L. F. Larkins, a route agent on the L. & S. road at Joplin on a charge of rifling the mail. He was taken to Kansas City and sentenced to serve one year and a day in jail. He was taken to the Henry county jail for imprisonment.

Last Saturday he received a full pardon from President Harrison, and at once left for his home at Pleasant Hill. He had been a postal agent for fourteen years and his arrest was a great surprise to his friends.—Nevada Mail.

This is pretty good.

Mr. John C. Goodwin, a carpenter of Danville, Ill., writes: "About two weeks ago a heavy saw log tell upon my toot very badly crushing it, so that I was un-able to walk at all. I sent for a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment and kept my toot well saturated with it. It is now two weeks since that occured, and my foot is nearly will and I am at work Had I not used Snow Liniment I should have been laid up two months. For healing wounds, sprains, sores and brutses it has no equal. No Inflamation can exist where Snow Liniment is used. You can use this letter."

Beware of all white Liniments substituted for Snow Liniment. There is no other Liniment like Ballard's Snow Sold by H. L. Tucker. Liniment.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

-The late Gen. Crook was a first-rate marksman. An officer who served under him on the plains tells that he once saw him kill six pin-tailed grouse with seven shots of his rifle, and all of the grouse but one were shot in the Shiioh's catarrh remedy-a positive head or neck. The general always took

-The "power behind the throne" of the czar of Russia, by which the czar is largely controled, is embodied in that singular man, Pobiedonostseff, the procurator of the holy synod of the Russian church. This astute functionary has acquired a great ascendency over the mind of Alexander III.

-Canon Ainger, the biographer and ardent admirer of Charles Lamb, says The Atchison Globe says: "A that what is called American humor is not humor at all, but a kind of debased wit. He believes that it is the humanity in humor that marks it as true-that there must be real reverance for certain ideals in the humorist's mind.

- Miss Betham-Edwards, the English novelist, is credited with strong and unusual opinions upon several subjects. She does not eat meat, is an advocate of cremation, thinks "The Scarlet Letter" the finest novel of the century and dislikes Ibsen and Tolstoi. She is a concomplaints are, according to statistics, sin of Miss Amelia B. Edwards, the Egyptologist.

-An English newspaper notes an instance at Southampton when an American, just arriving, offered to give upon American reprint of "Eric Brighteyes," by Rider Haggard. The matter was brought to the attention of two customs inspectors, both of whom declared that Haggard was not an English author. The traveler was consequently allowed to keep his "Eric Brighteves."

-John Strange Winter began to write a story called "Justice" before Herbert Spencer's fourth part of the Principles of Ethics appeared with the title of "Justice." The lady thought that she must, therefore, change the name of her book; but Mr. Spencer, when the situation was described to him, said it would be perfectly satisfactory if the novel was called "Justice-A Story."

-A few years ago a young man became clerk in a railroad office for the late ex-Congressman William L. Scott, of Erie. He was faithful in a few things and has now been made manager over much. In his will Mr. Scott leaves an estate of about $20,000,000, and he appoints this former humble clerk to take general charge of the immense fortune, with a salary of $50,-

-A curious new periodical is annonneed in England. This is an English-Arabic monthly, which proposes to make the east and west better known to each other by means of a paper that shall be read by both." It is to be called the Eastern and Western Review, and will be printed in London, partly in English and Arabic. It is said that influential support has been promised from Constantinople and Cairo.

-Three sisters named Klumpke, natives of California, but students abroad for some years, have won unusually brilliant reputations in Paris within the past few years. The eldest studied medicine in Germany and Paris with distinguished success, and was the first woman to be admitted as house-surgeon in a Paris hospital. She is now continuing her excellent work, though married to a famous French physician. The second sister is an artist, a pupil of Julien, exhibits every year in the Salon, and has medals and honorable mention from the best societies. While the third sister, Miss Dorothea, excels in mathematical studies, and has given especially valuable aid to astronomical savants.

Mrs. Gabb -"Can't you think of anything you would like, my little man?" Little Man —"No'm. You see, mom made me eat a hull lot before we started, so I wouldn't make a pig of myself."-Demorest's Magazine.

-For Charitable Purposes. - Mrs. Blank-"I am sorry to say that I can't afford to contribute anything to that charity, I really haven't a cent with me." Collector-"That's precisely what Miss Sharp said you'd do." Mrs. Blank -"What! That cross-eyed old maid? How much did she give?" Collector-"Five dollars." Mrs. Blank-"Here's ten."-Yankee Blade.

-An old bachelor recently gave utterance to the following jeu d'esprit. He was introduced to a beautiful widow, of the same name as himself. The introduction was in this wise: "Mr. Evans, permit me to introduce you to Mrs. Evans," "Mrs. Evans!" exclaimed the spirited bachelor; "the very lady I have been in search of for the last forty years:"-Once a Week.

-A certain well-known man of letters received from a friend of much ambition, but small literary talent, a volume of portentious length, which he was requested to read and criticise for its author's benefit. For a moment the recipient of the ponderous tome was staggered by the weight of the burden laid upon him; then a happy inspiration seized him, and, snatching up his pen, he addressed to his tormentor the following note: "Dear X., I have received your book, and shall lose no time in reading it!"-Once a Week.
